Men's suit specialist Brooks Brothers is joining women's fashion purveyor Anthropologie at the One development in downtown Greenville, and the developer says more stores are coming.

The arrival of another so-called "destination" retailer along Main Street to go with Mast General Store and Anthropologie is putting downtown on track to become one of Greenville's retail hubs for the first time since the 1970s, Mayor Knox White said.

"I think 2013 will be the year that we crossed an important threshold," White said, adding that it may be time for the city to recruit a department store for downtown.

A spokeswoman for New York-based Brooks Brothers, Lauren Chin, confirmed plans for a store at One but said on Wednesday she couldn't immediately provide details. The store is
