

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

The Crow Creek Access Area on Lake Keowee in Sunset will reopen today after months of improvements.

Crow Creek Access Area reopens today

THE JOURNAL STAFF

SUNSET — Site recreation enhancements at the Crow Creek Access Area on Lake Keowee have been completed, and all facilities and amenities will reopen for public use today.

The access area is located at 196 Crowe Creek Access Road in Sunset. Improvements include additional picnic facilities, bank fishing stations, expanded lake access and parking facilities.

"These improvements are part of ongoing efforts by Duke Energy to ensure quality access areas are available for recreational use on our lakes," Duke Energy director of public safety and recreation strategy planning services John Crutchfield said.