SENECA — Overlooking one of the most beautiful views of Lake Keowee, folks can listen to the Daniel High School band play a mixture of classical, contemporary and jazz music at Oconee's World of Energy at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"This is the first year Daniel High School's band has performed at the World of Energy, and we are excited to host these special, talented students," Duke Energy spokeswoman Mikayla Kreuzberger said. "The event is open to the public, and we hope that in addition to band members' family and friends, we see many of our neighbors in the audience."

The award-winning Daniel Symphonic Band, Percussion Ensemble and the renowned DHS Jazz Ensemble will perform at the concert.

"The Symphonic Band will feature the works of Ottorino Respighi, as well as a musical tribute to the life of John F. Kennedy," Daniel High School director of bands Nathan Whitworth said. "The percussion ensemble will feature a fun piece called 'Stool Pigeon.' The Jazz Band will perform well-known classics by Tommy Dorsey and Benny Goodman along with some other show-stopping numbers."

Limited transportation assistance will be provided to transport guests to the World of Energy lake point. In the event of inclement weather, the concert will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Alcohol, glass and pets are not allowed.
