Free document shredding event offered today at Seneca Chick-fil-A

BY GREG OLIVER
THE JOURNAL

SENECA — Got some personal documents to get rid of? Dispose of them between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. today, when Shred 360 conducts a free shredding event in the parking lot of Chick-fil-A in Seneca.

Those planning to bring items are reminded there is a limit of five boxes, bags or bins per person, although exceptions may be made depending on the volume of traffic. Plastics, glass, trash or other non-paper items are not accepted.

Shred 360 is not responsible for information that is abandoned or left unattended by consumers at the event or prior to shredding.

Shred 360 does not require removal of any common office quality products, which includes clips, binders, staples, plastics and metals. Spiral notebooks, three-ring binders and floppy disks are also allowed.

Shred 360 regularly organizes and participates in free community Shred Day events throughout the year in which the public is encouraged to drop off personal items for immediate and secure destruction. Shredding is considered the most secure and cost-effective solution to threats that include fraud, identity theft and corporate espionage.

The spring event held at Chick-fil-A in Seneca has seen approximately 225 people attend and nearly 11,000 pounds of paper shredded. The fall event in Clemson has seen approximately 125-140 attend and the shredding of a little more than 7,000 pounds of paper.

For more information on Shred 360, visit Shred360.com or call (888) 874-3839.

goliver@upstatetoday.com | (864) 973-6687
Follow on Twitter @JournalGO