Greenville is on James Taylor's tour

By Donna Isbell Walker
Entertainment writer
dwalker@greenvilleonline.com

James Taylor will be coming to Carolina, and not just in his mind.

The singer-songwriter and his All-Star Band will perform Nov. 22 at the Bon Secour Wellness Arena.

The Greenville show will be one of about 15 stops on Taylor's fall tour, which runs through the month of November.

The singer, who released his self-titled debut album in 1968, is known for such hits as "Carolina in My Mind," "Fire and Rain," and "Shower the People."

The 66-year-old Taylor, who grew up in North Carolina, has won five Grammy Awards and was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and the Songwriters Hall of Fame in 2000.

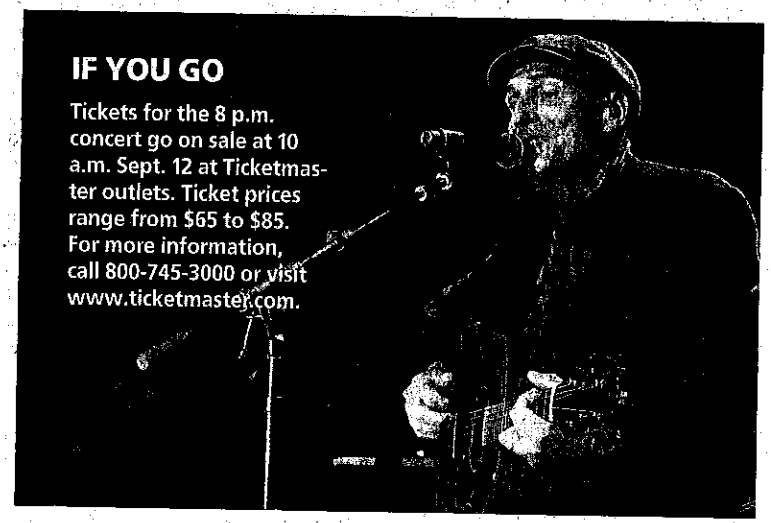

In 2011, he was awarded the National Medal of the Arts.

His most recent Grammy came in 2003 for Best Country Collaboration With Vocals for "How's the World Treating You," which he performed with Alison Krauss.

His most recent album release is last year's "The Essential James Taylor," a compilation that mixes Taylor's biggest hits with lesser-known tunes such as "Millworker" and "Secret O'Life."

IF YOU GO

Tickets for the 8 p.m. concert go on sale at 10 a.m. Sept. 12 at Ticketmaster outlets. Ticket prices range from $65 to $85. For more information, call 800-745-3000 or visit www.ticketmaster.com.

WADE PAYNE/WADE PAYNE/INVISION/AP

James Taylor will perform in Greenville on Nov. 22.