Harpist to play at World of Energy

THE JOURNAL STAFF

SENECA — Atlanta harpist Lisa Handman will perform at Duke Energy's World of Energy at Oconee Nuclear Station at 10 a.m. Tuesday for the education center's Super Tuesday program.

The event is free and open to the public.

Handman will play her rare electric harp during the performance. A full-time performer and teacher, Handman was a merit scholar in the preparatory division at Manhattan School of Music.

She attended the Indiana University School of Music and earned her bachelor's degree in music education from Montclair State University, where she studied with nationally renowned harpist Rosalie Pratt.

She has been featured on "Say Yes to the Dress," "Real Housewives of Atlanta" and "The Oprah Winfrey Show." Handman performs throughout the Southeast.

Seating will be limited to the first 125 guests at the World of Energy.

For more information, call (864) 873-4600 or visit duke-energy.com/worldofenergy.

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Harpist Lisa Handman will play at Duke Energy's World of Energy on Tuesday for the education center's Super Tuesday program.