Housing bellwether

Lenders have been receiving fewer requests for home loans in recent weeks.

A survey by the Mortgage Bankers Association registered a weekly decline in applications for new residential mortgages in the last two weeks of May. Average interest rates on 30-year, fixed mortgages edged lower in the same period. The MBA's latest weekly survey is out today.

