I can see clearly now ...

REX BROWN | THE JOURNAL

Work continues this week at the site of the future NewSpring Church Clemson campus and Hartwell Village commercial development on the shores of Lake Hartwell near the intersection of U.S. Highway 123 and S.C. 93 in Seneca. Where once the property was lined with trees, travelers on U.S. 123 can now see clear across Hartwell to Clemson University's campus and Memorial Stadium. Casto Southeast Realty officials have said the developer expects stores at the 350,000-square-foot retail/restaurant development to open in early 2017, while the anticipated timing includes the opening of the NewSpring campus by fall.