Nuclear Regulatory Commission chairman visits Oconee station

Nuclear Regulatory Commission Chairman Gregory Jaczko visited the World of Energy and toured areas of Oconee Nuclear Station while in the area this week.
