Oil aims at biggest drop since 2008

The price of oil is headed for its biggest monthly decline since December 2008. Benchmark U.S. crude has dropped nearly 16 percent so far in May. There are growing expectations that the world won't use as much oil this year as previously expected.