The Week Ahead

Spotlight on housing

Economists project that sales of previously occupied homes slowed slightly in November from a month earlier.

Home sales rose 1.5 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.3 million in October, the briskest pace this year. Home sales have slumped through much of 2014 after a three-year rally in the wake of the housing bust. The National Association of Realtors reports its latest tally of home sales on Monday.
