THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 2010 THE GREENVILLE NEWS

State botanical garden to hold sale

STAFF REPORTS

CLEMSON — Some of the region's more popular annuals and bedding plants will be on sale to the public Saturday at the South Carolina Botanical Garden on the Clemson campus.

The sale will be from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the garden on Perimeter Road.

The garden normally hosts a spring and fall plant sale, but it is hosting an additional sale Saturday that will feature more annuals and bedding plants.

The garden staff has grown Hypoestes Splash series, Melampodium "Million Gold," Gomphrena Gnome series, Talinum paniculatum "Limon," Torenia Clown series, Zinnia angustifolia, Dragon Wing begonias, among others, for the sale.

In addition to the bedding plants, a wider selection of other plants will also be available, including Cephalotaxus harringtonia "Brooklyn Botanical Garden," a deer-resistant plum yew with a full shape and rich color, and Cercis canadensis var. texensis "Traveller," a weeping redbud with great flowers.