>

Print (#)

Subdivision in works at Lake Keowee

The Reserve at Lake Keowee began site work and construction on a new waterfront neighborhood, Village Point, that will include 14 homes priced in the mid-$600,000s and up. The Reserve is a 3,900-acre community in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Staff Report
Published Oct. 18, 2012

The Reserve at Lake Keowee (http://www.LifeOnKeowee.com) began site work and construction on a new waterfront neighborhood, Village Point, that will include 14 homes.

Seven of the sites have sold, according to a news release.

Home plans range from 2,650 to 3,750 square feet, with pricing beginning in the mid-$600,000s. The homes qualify for entry into the community's residential rental program.

The homes were designed by Atlanta-based Lew Oliver Inc., and will be built by Pyramid Construction, which also constructed the community's pool pavilion complex, tennis and fitness facility, guesthouse cottages and Laurel Pond neighborhood.

The Reserve at Lake Keowee was created in 2000 by Greenwood Communities and Resorts. The community spans 3,900 acres in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, with 30 miles of shoreline on Lake Keowee.

Print (#)