The Arts Center in Clemson celebrates its summer camp "Culmination" exhibit

FOR THE JOURNAL

CLEMSON — The Arts Center of Clemson will host a children's exhibit called "Culmination" from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. today until Aug. 3. This exhibit will feature artwork from each student who attended summer art camp.

This year marks the sixth anniversary for the camp. The camp has maintained its momentum, serving over 300 Upstate children and their families since its inception in 2007.

Over the course of camp, students ranging in age from 3 through 15 experience fine art taught by professional artists. Students create art in various mediums including printmaking, experimental collage, drawing, jewelry, painting, ceramics and more.

"The Culmination Exhibit is a shining jewel for art camp students" said Arts Center Program Director Cheryl Lecroy. Each year, students walk through the gallery with pride and excitement as they show family members their creations.
