OCONEE COUNTY — One boat rear-ended another on Lake Keowee on Saturday evening, sending two to the hospital with minor injuries, said Larry Holbrooks of the Department of Natural Resources.

Holbrooks said the injuries were not life threatening. The accident collision happened near Warpath Landing on northern Lake Keowee, said Oconee County Dive Team Chief Bob Kinder. One boat failed to stop and ran up onto the rear of another vessel, with four people onboard each unit.

After the crash, one vessel continued to Windward Point, while the other ended up on shore near Warpath Landing, Kinder said.

The South Carolina Department of Natural Resources was still investigating the incident on Tuesday afternoon.
