World of Energy hosts outdoor day

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Will Bice of Clemson learns to shoot a bow and arrow at the Hunting and Fishing Day event held at the World of Energy.

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

The eighth annual National Hunting and Fishing Day event recently held at the World of Energy in Seneca was a huge success, with an estimated 1,500 people in attendance.

Children of all ages and their families helped celebrate the great outdoors with hands-on activities such as kayaking, archery, fly fishing and much more.

Dozens of conservation organizations were on hand with exhibits to help educate people on the importance of taking care of our natural resources.

The annual outdoors event is made possible through partnerships with Duke Energy, Upstate Forever, US Sportsmen's Alliance Foundation, Weatherby Foundation, Outdoor Adventures, Academy Sports, Harry Hampton Memorial Wildlife Fund, Clemson Cooperative Extension, SC 4H Shooting Sports, DNR and Trout Unlimited.