

Clemson is named the 'Best Small Sports City'

Elizabeth LaFleur

Greenville News

USA TODAY NETWORK - SOUTH CAROLINA

Clemson has been named the country's Best Small Sports City by WalletHub. The website built lists of the best small, midsize and large sports cities using 50 key metrics ranging from performance level of teams to average ticket price per game.

WalletHub compared 420 cities across the U.S. to build the lists. Clemson came in at no. 1 on the small cities list. Boston was named the top large sports city. Green Bay, Wisconsin, took top honors on the midsize cities list.

Three other small Carolinas cities were in the top 15. Chapel Hill, home to the University of North Carolina took no. 3, Cullowhee, North Carolina, home to Western Carolina University, was no. 7 and Conway, home to Coastal Carolina University was no. 13.

Charlotte, which came in at no. 20 on the large cities list, had the highest NFL team popularity-index.

Students and visitors walk during the Clemson University Welcome Back Festival in downtown Clemson.

KEN RUINARD/INDEPENDENT-MAIL

To view the full report, visit <https://wallethub.com/edu/best-sports-cities/15179/>