

Patrick Square breaks ground for $13M senior

BY GREG OLIVER
THE JOURNAL

CLEMSON — A groundbreaking ceremony for the newest addition coming to Patrick Square, a 72,000-square-foot, $13 million independent living community, took place Wednesday on Pershing Avenue.

The four-story community, known as Dominion Independent Living, will have 70 luxury-style apartments in several floor plans. The new community is expected to open in the fall of 2019 and bring about 20 new jobs to the area.

Patrick Square Town Center manager Chris Hodge said the new addition will be greatly welcomed.

"The addition of Dominion Independent Living helps fulfill the vision of Patrick Square as a multi-generational community," Hodge said. "The wide range of housing options appeal to young families, empty-nesters and retirees alike."

Hodge added the Town Center will also benefit from the latest facility.

"In addition to being new neighbors, residents at Dominion will support our Town Center as customers," he said. "We have seen a number of new retail and service providers who were attracted to the Town Center commercial spaces because of the opportunity to cater to Dominion residents."

Dominion Senior Living senior vice president of operations Michael Holtzclaw said the support received from the community has been "humbling."

"We couldn't be more excited to open our doors next year," Holtzclaw said. "We are in the business of helping others, and every detail of the community is carefully considered and

SEE COMMUNITY, PAGE A2

Living community

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

State Sen. Thomas Alexander addresses the audience in attendance Wednesday at the groundbreaking ceremony for a $13 million independent living community at Patrick Square in Clemson.

designed to offer an active, engaging, secure and peaceful environment. Clemson is the perfect place for a faith-based independent living community, and we are happy to exceed the needs of this community."

Dominion Senior

MISSION IS TO HONOR GOD through the service of seniors. Features include a game room, theater/chapel, spa, yoga room, outdoor entertainment and concierge services available 24 hours a day.

goliver@upstatetoday.com | (864) 973-6687
Follow on Twitter @JournalGO

MOORE'S pupils appeared unrelated during a traffic stop, and K-9 officer Lina later indicated there were drugs in the vehicle, according to an incident report.

After searching the vehicle and Moore's person, marijuana, methamphetamine and a 9 mm handgun with the serial num-press time Thursday.

Gambrell said he and the victim had been drinking when Gambrell and his girlfriend began arguing, according to the incident report. Gambrell and his girlfriend believed the victim had a knife, and Gambrell struck him with a shovel in self-defense, he told the officer.

— The Journal staff