

Merry and bright

Christmas lights and music filled Norton Thompson Park and much of the rest of downtown Seneca for the first time Friday on the first night of the city's fourth annual Christmas lights show. The lights are on display every night through the holiday season starting at 5:30 p.m. The display's main 36-foot Christmas tree will not be lit until a special tree lighting ceremony at 5 p.m. on Nov. 29, just before the Seneca Christmas parade.
